Information has been coming to the. attention of Thomas Stewart, special agent for the C. & O. reilrond, that persons from the county have been ter throwing conl from passing trains, liavo hanted it away on their sleds.

Tuesday night Officer Stewart with Mr. Elmer Beekett, manager of the Mnysville Buick Company, left in Mr. Beekett's muchine for a point near the city and from thence waiked herd, $25.99; Osborne & Yntes, $28.72; stopped to ecal. Officer Slewart and Mr. Beekett saw several men jeave the docks and walk up the tracks. In a short time they were observed on > top of the cars throwing coal. On one of the ears were four men. Officer Stewart apprehended Thomas Wilson and Cooper Devnughn, both of Orangeburg, but the other two made their esence. The two that were eartured had thrown off about twenty bushels of eoal, while the two that eseaped had evidently worked faster and had about thirty bushels plied at the side of the ear. On the recommendation of Mr. Beckett, the two men were released and ordered to report lu Pollee Court for trial next Friday afternoon ut 2 o'clock.

On mother ear two other men were observed. One of them, giving the name of George Prince, and his home as Tolesboro, was arrested, but the other managed to make his escape. I'rinee was also released but was ordered to appear in Police Court next Fridny afternoon at 2 o'clock. Both of the men had thrown off about twenty-tive bushels of coal apiece,

WEARY OF REFORM

Mayor Hylan of New York, who vaulted into untional fame by defeating Mayor Mitchel and most of the "uplift" forces of the metropolis, has another claim to distinction. He has aumonneed: "We have had all the reform we want in this city for some time to eome."

This is more than might have been expected even from a Tammany mayor. Indeed, it has usually been considered good Tammany policy to do a certain amount of "pandering to the noraml sense of the community." Boss Murphy himself, a couple of years ago. declared for "the uplifi."

Mayor Hylan's words, taken literally, would indicate a mourn ful slump in civic ideals. But the utterance shouldn't be taken too seriously. It probably represents nothing more than a rather natural reaction against eivic reform propaganda characterized more by zeal than by brains. Possibly the "uplift" has really been overdone in New York. It has in some cities. That is to say, certain groups of "professional reformers" have made themselves obnoxious, not so much because of what they wanted as because of the way they went about it.

As for whatever has been genuine in municipal reform, we may rest assured that it will continue. No election, no official or group of officials, can turn back the hands of the clock. If an administration is not so good as its predecessor, gauged by our new standards of public service, it's pretty sure to be a big improvement on the one before last. And any slump means a bigger leap forward next time toward the goal of administrative honesty and efficiency.

New York isn't really weary of reform. No city is, because no American city has yet got enough reform-which is to say, enough modern progress. And even the Hylans are likely to move things forward, in ohedience to the compelling spirit of the time, whether they know it or not.

MORE READING

There is far more reading being done in the world today than ever before. This is especially true of America, which reads nearly list. as much as all the rest of the world together. And the increase is mostly serious reading.

Any librarian will vouch for the new demand for solid books. Any news dealer will tell of higger sales of magazines of the better sort. It's a matter of common observation that newspapers are read more widely and more thoroughly than ever before.

The war has done it. Yet the effect is more far-reaching than bought from Dimmie Hammight be expected. For the reading is by no means all, or mostly war reading. Great as is the demand for books and magazine articles dealing with the war, keen as is the interest of the newspaper well. reader in the day's news, the stimulus extends beyond that and ereates a demand for many kinds of substantial literature having no visible connection with war topics.

People's interests have been enlarged. They turn more natur- Barraneas, Fla., was rejected by the ally to the best literature of the present and the past. They want more information about the world we live in, and are more eurious than they used to be as to how this present-day world eame

Maybe this will not last. Waybe the new interest is only a wholesome fad. But careful observers do not think so. The effect is likely to strengthen as we proceed with the war, and to last for many years, to the great intellectual carrichment of the nation.

CATCHING UP

The great industrial shut-down ordered by the fuel administration necessarily imposes much present hardship and aronses much discontent. It is particularly on the workers deprived of their usual earnings and subject to living expenses as usual. It causes hig losses to manufacturers and widespread disturbance to business in

But there is cheer in the midst of the gloom, because of the relief likely to result from this diastic step. By losing a few days' work now, the victims may be saved the loss of several times that period later on. It is explained that coal distribution was so far behind the demand that, if all industries had kept on working and consuming fuel as usual, the shortage from which they have been suffering would almost certainly continue throughout the winter. With manufacturing catablishments closed for five days, and with a few coal-less Mondays in prospect, two important results are promised:

First, the coal which would normally have been consumed duing this period of suspension will be saved antright, thus providing a surplus for the first time this winter.

Second, the closing of the factories relieves the traffic conges. tion, throwing the railroad tracks open for the first time for maximum coal movements, enormously stimulating coal deliveries.

It is koped that with the fuel surplus thus piled up, and the impetns given the coat industry, coal distribution will not only eatab up to consumption by the expiration of the period, but will stay caught up for the rest of the season. If so, nobody need lament the temporary inconvenience.

A PRACTICAL COAL BOSS

There is hope in the announcement that a big, practical, coal man has been put in charge of coal distribution by the fuel administration by the fuel administration. He is J. O. A. Morrow, organizer and former secretary of the National Coal Association.

The purpose of his appointment, as explained by the fuel administrator, is "to facilitate the introduction of the new plan of partial decentralization and apportionment and distribution without overburdening the present organization." Whatever that may mean in the Washington scheme of things, it is said to signify, in practice, that coal will be moved.

Mr. Morrow is expected to reduce hanks and get fuel from the mine to the consumer over the shortest practicable routes, in the shortest possible time. May the expectation be realized!

Mr. S. D. Watts, Assistant Director vesterday afternoon.

Another object of his mission was to enilst some of our ladies to attend an institute that is to be conducted under the auspices of the American Red Cross in co-operation with the Cincinnati chapter, the University of Cincinnati and the Cincinnati Assoieated Charities. The Red Cross needs well trained workers who can volunteer their services to the Department of Civilian Relief for home service, among the families of the men enlisted in our army and navy. it is for the purpose of training these workers that institutes have been held in the various cities of the country.

A thorough knowledge of all the resources of the community which may be drawn upon to meet the various needs of the families deprived of their usual support is necessary to eaable the workers to render adequate and Inteiligeat service.

This course will consist of twenty four lectures beginning February 12. with weekly quizzes, collateral reading and at least twenty-five hours of supervised field work each week. It will require the full time of the stutent and is primarily for workers from the district adjacent to Cincianntl, covering Southern Ohio, Southeastern Ohlo and Kentneky.
